

GAS REFORM BILL MAY PASS MONDAY

New Measure Presented Will Cover All Legislation.

SLIDING PRICE SCALE

Restricts Use of Carbon Monoxide to 10 Per Cent.

Representative Sims Introduces the Measure, and Will Ask for Consideration of It the First Thing Tomorrow—Measure Conforms to the Plans Agreed Upon by the Senate. Many Members Express Approval.

Determined to bring about gas legislation at this session of Congress, both to reduce the price of gas in the District of Columbia and insure the safety of the consumers, Representative Sims, of Tennessee, yesterday introduced a very comprehensive bill which he believes will have the approval of both the House and the Senate.

The bill provides for 90-cent gas, the establishment of an initial rate of dividends, and the adoption of a sliding scale of prices and dividends, after the theory now in force in many European cities, and which is working so effectively in Massachusetts. It also prohibits the sale of gas containing more than 10 per cent carbon monoxide.

The bill is in line with what the Senate has agreed on as to gas legislation, and is approved by a majority of the members of the lower House. The District Committee, it is believed, will recommend the bill without a dissenting vote.

May Pass House Tomorrow.

Mr. Sims' plan is to call up the bill tomorrow and ask unanimous consent that the committee be relieved from further consideration of it. He will then try to have it passed.

The measure is far-reaching in its effect, and covers the proposed legislation in the numerous other bills pending in Congress. It is identical with the legislation which the Senate is said to have decided on. The friends of gas legislation in the House have been in conference often during the last few days, and it is the plan of the two bodies to introduce bills as much alike as possible, so that the matter can be acted upon more expeditiously.

Provisions of Bill.

The Sims bill provides that after July 1, 1930, the price of gas in the District of Columbia shall not exceed 90 cents per thousand cubic feet. The price is to be regulated from time to time in the future. The gas is to be of not less than eighteen candle power, measured by the tests established by law, and shall not contain more than 10 per cent carbon monoxide gas.

Section 2 of the bill repeals that paragraph of the present law which authorizes the gas companies to increase their capital stock.

It is provided that within sixty days after the passage of this act the gas companies in the District shall institute proceedings in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to have made a judicial valuation of their property in the conduct of their business. In making this valuation the good will and franchise of the companies shall not be appraised.

May Increase Capital Stock.

After this judicial appraisal has been made it shall be lawful for the gas companies to increase their capital stocks to an amount not exceeding the value of their property so found, less all legal and valid liens, encumbrances, obligations of any kind that may be outstanding against the property for which the companies may issue to the holders thereof so much stock as may be sufficient to retire the same at its par value. If the gas companies desire to issue bonds upon property by mortgage or otherwise, they may petition the court for permission to do so.

It is provided that the amount of stock and bonds issued under this act shall in no case exceed the actual value of the property of the corporation used in the conduct of its business, exclusive of good will and franchise, and the cost of any extensions and enlargements of the plants that it may be necessary to make hereafter.

Scale of Dividends.

The standard rate of dividends to be paid by these corporations to their stockholders shall be 6 per cent per annum upon the par value of their capital stock. This rate shall not be increased thereafter, except that whenever the maximum net price per 1,000 cubic feet charged by the corporation has been less than the price specified by this act the corporations may, during the following year, declare and pay dividends exceeding the standard rate in the ratio of one-fifth of 1 per cent for every 1 cent of reduction of the maximum net price below the standard price.

Provision is made that if the net profits of the corporations applicable to the payment of dividends in any year amount to a larger sum than is sufficient to pay the dividends authorized by law, the excess may be accumulated as a reserve fund not to exceed 5 per cent of par value of the capital stock of the corporations. This reserve is to be subject to the control of the corporations as their interests may require.

Open Set of Books.

After the passage of this act every corporation engaged in the manufacture or sale of gas in the District shall keep open a set of books in the manner and form prescribed by the public service commission of New York, or by a system to be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The gas companies are authorized to purchase, own, and operate for their own use and benefit coal lands wherever situated, and any other sources of supply of raw materials used in manufacturing its principal product or by-product.

Mr. Sims said last night that his bill was drawn to cover all the proposed legislation and to suit both the Senate and House of Representatives. He believes, in view of the short time remaining before Congress closes, Congress must act on his measure, or one similar, or let the legislation go over until next session.

RITES FOR VIVIAN BOWDOIN.

BATTLE FLEET BOUND HOME

Puts Into Hampton Roads on Washington's Birthday.

Given Rousing Send-off as It Leaves Gibraltar—Rear Admiral Sperry in Command.

In just fifteen days the Atlantic fleet will drop anchor in the harbor of Hampton Roads, Va., and again lie in home waters after an absence of fourteen months and six days.

During that time the sixteen battle ships have covered 42,227 miles in circumnavigating the globe, and not a single accident has marred the voyage.

The feat is absolutely unparalleled in naval history; the vessels themselves form the greatest armored fleet that has ever attempted such a voyage.

Three admirals have directed the progress of this trip. Rear Admiral Evans was on the bridge when the fleet hoisted anchors at Hampton Roads on December 15, 1927. When the sixteen vessels sailed into the Golden Gate of San Francisco harbor on May 6, 1928, Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas' flag was hoisted at the peak.

From July 7 Rear Admiral C. S. Sperry has been commander-in-chief.

In traversing the 42,000 miles the fleet has dropped anchor in twenty-six ports in fifteen foreign countries, not to speak of Honolulu and Manila, where the American flag flew.

GUNS BOOM FAREWELL

Admiral Sperry's Ships Given Rousing Send-off on Voyage.

Gibraltar, Feb. 6.—The one thought upon the minds of Admiral Sperry and his fellow-officers as they sent the sixteen battle ships of the American fleet out of the harbor to-day was to complete their record-breaking world cruise without a mishap.

The farewell to the ships to-day was a noisy affair, with the British, Russian, French, and German war ships booming their salutes, to which the American ships responded. The shore batteries also fired parting salutes.

The fleet will go direct to Hampton Roads, where the Presidential review will be held on Washington's Birthday.

Following the Hampton Roads review, the fleet will proceed to Guantanamo, Cuba, for spring target practice. This fact alone indicates that the ships are in good condition, considering the hardships they have undertaken. After the target practice, the ships will disperse to the navy yards for repairs.

PREDICTS COLD WEATHER.

Forecasters Give Warning of a Fast Approaching Storm.

According to the Weather Bureau, overcoats will be in great demand in the next two or three days. The official forecast predicts high winds, snow, and a fast falling temperature.

DEATH ROBS BISHOP HARDING OF WIFE

End Came at Family Home Yesterday Afternoon.

HAD BEEN ILL TWO MONTHS

Complication of Diseases, Aggravated by Heart Trouble and Exacerbated by Excitement of Election of Bishop of Washington, Brought About the Fatal Attack.

Mrs. Justine Butler Prindle Harding, wife of Bishop Alfred Harding, died at 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the family residence, 520 Twenty-third street northwest, after a protracted illness. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Bishop Harding is almost prostrated with grief over the loss of his wife. Only a week or so ago, honored with the highest office in the Episcopal Church, his satisfaction at being made a bishop has now changed almost to remorse, for it was the excitement due to his election that caused Mrs. Harding to take to the sick bed which she was never to leave.

For years, almost from the time of her marriage, Mrs. Harding was an invalid. She did not consider her condition serious until about two months ago, when the election for the bishopric of Washington was begun. The excitement was too much for her weakened condition, and the services of physicians were required.

Dr. Hawhurst Called.

Dr. H. H. Hawhurst was called and he made an examination. He found chronic lung trouble, from which Mrs. Harding had suffered for years, and was seriously affected by valvular heart trouble, which later had set in. Traces of another ailment were evident and Dr. E. Baker was called in consultation. The physicians left no device known to medical science untried, but their efforts were unavailing, and the patient's condition became steadily worse until yesterday afternoon, when she closed her eyes for the last time.

With Mrs. Harding when she died were husband and children and three step-daughters—Mrs. E. G. Love, Mrs. R. C. Crayke, of Toronto, and Miss Harriet Douglas, of New York.

Mrs. Harding was born about fifty years ago in New York City. She was well educated, and while young went to Germany, where for three years she studied music. It was shortly after her return to this country that she met Dr. Harding. He was then manager of a large linen factory. The acquaintance ripened into friendship, which lasted through the years the young merchant studied for the ministry. When Dr. Harding accepted the position of assistant to Dr. J. Sebastian Hodges, rector emeritus of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Baltimore, the couple became engaged. Shortly after Dr. Harding was called to St. Paul's Church, of Washington, and on June 8, 1887, he and Miss Prindle were married.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. Hodges, of Baltimore, in New York City. The young minister and his bride lived for years at 223 Pennsylvania avenue, old rectory, where the first son, Douglas, was born and later died. The other children—Alfred, sixteen years old; Charlotte, fifteen years old; and Paul, thirteen years old—were born in the present rectory, at 520 Twenty-third street.

Although an invalid, Mrs. Harding was well known for her excellent disposition and even temperament. She was noted for her faithfulness and trust in her husband, and old parishioners say the two were more like chums than husband and wife.

Accomplished Musician.

Mrs. Harding was a studious woman and an excellent linguist. She was also well known as an accomplished musician. Mrs. J. Douglas was the mother of Mrs. Harding. Her stepfather was Dr. John H. Douglas, physician to President Grant in his last illness.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but it is probable services will be held in St. Paul's Church on Tuesday.

FORGERY CHARGE DENIED BY GRAY

Bookkeeper Makes Statement Declaring Innocence.

BOND GIVEN FOR RELEASE

Gray Accused of Receiving Money from Two Checks Which Were Bogus—Declares He Would Have Fled if He Was Guilty—Is Prominent in Republican Politics.

Denying a charge of forgeries involving a sum of $4,000, Oden B. Gray, bookkeeper in a downtown bank, yesterday made a formal statement, declaring his innocence.

He was released from the First precinct station late in the afternoon under $5,000 bond furnished by Dr. W. W. Stewart, for his appearance in the Police Court to-morrow morning.

The arrest of the bookkeeper, the police say, was the result of a secret investigation which the bank officials and detectives have been conducting for the last three weeks.

Money for Two Checks.

Gray is accused of having received the money from two checks, one for $3,750 and the other for $250, against the largest accounts in the bank. The police say the checks were cashed by another bank than the one where Gray was employed.

Bank officials first learned through the clearing house that two checks had been cleared. Investigation showed these checks had been removed from the files, and the police were notified. Although Gray had access to the files, they were not in his charge.

About 10 o'clock yesterday morning Gray, who had been suspended from duty at the beginning of the investigation, on January 15 last, was summoned by a bank official to his private office. There Gray was questioned by Detective Charles A. Evans. Gray refused to talk, and his arrest followed.

Ransacked House.

"I was locked up at the First precinct police station," said Gray to a reporter for The Washington Herald, "and before I could obtain my release under bond a detective accompanied by a bank official went to my home, 718 Twenty-first street northwest, and told my wife they had been sent by me to procure a book. They were admitted, and while pretending to search for the book ransacked the house, even going so far as to pull clothing from my bureau drawers in my bedroom."

"I am innocent of the charges preferred against me and will prove the truth of my statement in court. The bank officials learned on January 15 that six checks were missing from files. The next day charges were filed against me by William C. Shelley, a claim attorney, living in Arlington, Va., through George C. Henning, president of the Washington Safe Deposit Company. These charges were of a personal nature and did not concern the missing papers."

"Nevertheless, I was suspended from the bank, where I was employed as individual bookkeeper. If I had been guilty of forgery I would have fled, and not remained in daily communication with bank officials, as I have done. Then the police say they learned I have been spending much money recently, and that I am deeply in debt. This is a falsehood."

Had Been in Debt.

"It is true I have been in debt to the extent of $400, but most of this money was paid before I was employed by the bank, eighteen months ago, and there remains to-day only $30 to be paid."

"George W. Moss, who was general agent for the Adams Express Company while I was cashier of the company for a period of six years, has seen John Jay Edson, president of the bank where I was bookkeeper, and told him of my standing in the eyes of officials of the express company."

"Mr. Edson told me himself he did not believe there was truth in the accusations, and said he believed I would clear myself."

"Representatives of the Allegheny Coal Company, which I represent in Washington, have also expressed a determination to stand by me, and said they were satisfied the charges were false."

"My arrest was the direct result of 'spite' as my character was assailed in such a way as to direct suspicion to me."

Has Retained Attorney.

Gray is chairman of the Republican county committee of Alexandria County, Va., and a member of the Republican executive committee of Virginia. He is treasurer of Sir Lancelotti Lodge, No. 96, Knights of Pythias, of Baltimore, Va., member of Kemper Lodge, No. 31, F. & A. M., of Falls Church, Va.; member of Columbia Lodge, No. 285, F. & A. M., of Arlington, Va., and a member of Congressional Council, National Union, of Washington.

Gray has retained Charles I. Simms as his attorney. Mr. Simms said last night his client was bonded only to the extent of $2,000, so far as he has been able to learn.

NO MORE MONEY NEEDED.

Red Cross Society Reports Quake Collection of $855,000.

The American National Red Cross Society notified yesterday the various State organizations that no more contributions are necessary for the Italian earthquake sufferers. At the close of business yesterday the total amount contributed had reached $855,000.

It is expected that when the money now in the hands of the State organizations is turned into the national headquarters the total will aggregate about one million dollars.

"Trustees" Still at Large.

The police have not yet apprehended Thomas Morrow and William Hart, negro "trustees" who escaped from the District workhouse early yesterday morning. The men were employed in the kitchen of the workhouse and escaped when their guard left the room for a few minutes. They were wearing striped clothing.
